

Freedom of expression and freedom of the airways are two of the strongest freedoms we have left.
If broadcast radio does not like the threat they say that satellite radio represents let them change the way that they do business in order to compete.

Did the government protect the typewriter industry when computers came along?